

Your Ontario Government

Your Ontario Government consists of the men and women elected to represent the people of the Province in the Legislature together with the public servants who put the legislators' policies into action.

Because there are a great number of government programs designed to meet a wide variety of citizens' needs, a comprehensive organizational structure is required to administer them.

This folder is intended to help you understand the way in which your government is organized, and to assist in locating its principal Queen's Park offices.

The basic units

The basic units of the government structure are the Ministries (formerly known as departments) such as Education, Health, Environment and Labour, each responsible to a Minister in the Cabinet.

Most of the services performed for citizens by these Ministries and some 250 Agencies, Boards and Commissions, are grouped into three organizations covering the broad policy fields of Justice, Resources Development and Social Development.

The work within a policy field is co-ordinated by a different kind of Cabinet Minister — the Provincial Secretary.

The Provincial Secretaries, supported by small secretariats in each field, are responsible for relating policies and priorities that cut across the traditional lines of departmental organization.

Provincial Secretaries guide rather than direct the approaches to the areas of government concern within their policy field. In Cabinet they sit as equals with colleagues who head Ministries having program responsibilities.

In turn, the policy fields report to the Policy and Priorities Board of Cabinet, chaired by the Premier, which brings an overall perspective to proposals being developed for consideration by Cabinet itself and, eventually, the Legislature.

The Management Board of Cabinet reviews the implementation of new programs and the effectiveness of continuing operations of the Government.
